Why and how your company can play a part in protecting the region's natural heritage

People taking action for wildlife

Northumberland Wildlife Trust

Northumberland Wildlife Trust is the region's leading non government funded environmental charity, supported by around 40 skilled staff, 13,000 members and 300 volunteers. One of 47 Wildlife Trusts across the UK, we have campaigned for over 40 years to create an environment rich in wildlife for everyone within Newcastle, North Tyneside and Northumberland to enjoy.

Key aspects of our work include:

Land Management

Our Estates Team manages over 60 nature reserves, covering 38km² (about 10,000 football pitches) including some of the country's rarest and most protected habitats. The type of work undertaken includes conservation grazing, planting native trees and hedgerows, bog restoration, removing invasive species, managing water levels to preserve wetlands, bee keeping, repairing fences, installing boardwalks and advising on restoration of quarries and open-cast sites.

Strategic Conservation

Collectively The Wildlife Trusts are working on a landscape scale with local authorities, government agencies, landowners, neighbouring communities and businesses to restore habitats, recreate wildlife-rich areas and reconnect green spaces so that wildlife can move freely and adapt to change. This is our recovery plan for nature and forms the basis of our 'Living Landscapes' campaign. At a local level we provide land management expertise and campaign to ensure that necessary policies and legislation are in place to enhance the biodiversity of the region.

Education

We work with local authorities, schools and community groups to inspire the next generation to care for the natural world. We provide wildlife teaching resources and information in both formal and informal settings and run programmes on growing your own food, wildlife gardening and species identification.

Community

Working alongside community groups, businesses and individuals in both urban and rural areas, we help people to improve their own local environment. We also run a vast number of events for the general public each year, from bird box making to rock pooling and guided walks.

Coastal and Marine Management

We are working with partners to support Marine Protected Areas, a proven way of allowing nature to recover. We are campaigning to change the way we manage our marine resources. We want to educate and inspire people about the marine environment, getting them involved in cleaning up our seas and monitoring the changes. This is our vision for 'Living Seas'.

What our partners say:

G At Tarmac, we have a clear responsibility to quarry materials in an efficient and sustainable way, protecting the environment and communities in which we work. We have worked closely with Northumberland Wildlife Trust in obtaining the Biodiversity Benchmark for all our sites in the North East. We have found their advice invaluable and trust them to help us manage the guarries now, and as we create the final restoration, creating new habitats that add value to the landscape. We have a mutual goal in inspiring the next generation to care for the environment and have found their support crucial in running an environmental awards programme for schools. Working with NWT will inspire your workforce.

G Protecting and enhancing the environment is at the core of our business. Working in partnership with Northumberland Wildlife Trust has helped us demonstrate this commitment and it has also given our employees the opportunity to get involved in all sorts of exciting projects. We are proud to have supported the Trust in a number of different ways including partnering in schemes to protect and enhance wildlife, delivering training for Trust staff, sponsoring a dedicated conservation post at Kielder Water & Forest Park and donating two ex-leasehold Land Rovers to assist in essential nature reserve management.

Making the region a better place to live, work and play

Northumberland Wildlife Trust works with a wide range of businesses across Newcastle, North Tyneside and Northumberland to secure a better future for the region's wildlife.

Good for the environment Good for business

Awareness of 'green' issues is at an all time high. Terms such as 'carbon footprint', 'environmental sustainability' and 'corporate social responsibility' (CSR) are fast becoming strategic boardroom priorities and recognised as a source of real competitive advantage. Companies are increasingly being expected to demonstrate their ecological credentials to environmentally aware stakeholders in order to retain, develop and attract new business.

Working together

We offer a Corporate Membership scheme but recognise that relationships form in many different ways. Whatever the size of your organisation or level of commitment you can give, we can work together to make a difference to the region's wildlife and wild places. We tailor solutions to fulfil your business, community and environmental objectives and would be happy to discuss exactly what would be right for your company.

Business benefits

A relationship with the Trust can help you:

- enhance your brand values and reputation
- increase your ability to attract, develop and motivate employees
- access different audiences
- engage with customers, suppliers, the local community and the wider public
- highlight your CSR commitment and positive environmental impact
- demonstrate responsible leadership

The Wildlife Trusts play a very important part in protecting our natural heritage. I would encourage anyone who cares about wildlife to join them.

Biodiversity Benchmark

Every organisation depends in some way on the natural environment and those with responsibility for land management have a direct impact on biodiversity.

The Wildlife Trusts' Biodiversity Benchmark provides a framework within which an organisation can ensure that its impact is as positive as it possibly can be by providing robust, independent verification of planning and implementation of land management practices.

Biodiversity Benchmark can complement existing environmental management systems such as ISO14001 and EMAS by integrating biodiversity into the systems of an organisation. Alternatively it can operate as a stand alone system.
